

BEER OPENLY SOLD
AT SALT LAKE BARAnybody Could Buy Lager
There Yesterday.

WAITERS KEPT RUNNING

BIG CROWD AT RESORT DURING THE DAY.

The barriers against the Sunday liquor traffic at Salt Lake have been removed, and it is just as easy now to buy beer there on the Sabbath as it is at any saloon in the city, or as easy as it was before the official declaration went forth early in the season that no liquor of any kind would be purchasable at the resort on the forbidden day.

The attendance yesterday was larger than on any Sunday this season. The waiters were kept very busy serving orders for drinks, and the ordinary days the cold bottles are served from the beer counter in the northwest corner of the pavilion, but yesterday the counter was closed, and the white-aproned waiters passed in and out of the barroom by the side entrance.

It really worked a hardship upon the waiters to have to do so much extra walking. Beer, beer bottles and beer drinkers were everywhere in evidence on the lower floor of the pavilion, but all of the conviviality was of the quiet kind, that is, the waiters and the patrons were cautious not to stumble over the chairs and tables.

When asked how it was that the beer traffic was going on after the edict had gone forth that no violation of the Sunday closing law would be tolerated, Manager McAllister said, with a significant smile, "I have had been ever toward the bar during the day, but he believed the traffic in beer was going on in a quiet way, just as it had been the past few days. He said that he had given notice to the lessees of the liquor selling privileges at the resort that they must be more rigid in the regulations on the Sabbath than on any other day of the week, and he believed they had kept faith."

"Don't you know," mused Manager McAllister, "that I don't doubt that the loudst kickers at the sale of a little beer on Sunday are those who have it by the case at home. No, everything is quiet and orderly here today, and as you see only respectable people are drinking."

By reason of Sheriff Naylor's absence from the state, no statement was obtainable from him as to his intentions to enforce the law which prohibits liquor at the resorts. However, County Attorney Christensen was seen. He said he had no official knowledge of any violations of the Sunday closing law, but he declared his readiness to make out complaints against any resort that should be found to have sold liquor on the forbidden day, in accordance with the pace that had been set early in the season.

While saying that only a couple of weeks ago the commissioners had directed anew that there should be no laxity in enforcing the law, he said that he had no official knowledge of any violations of the Sunday closing law, but he declared his readiness to make out complaints against any resort that should be found to have sold liquor on the forbidden day, in accordance with the pace that had been set early in the season.

Calder's Balloon Ascention. The balloon ascention by Professor Hamilton at Calder's park yesterday afternoon attracted a large crowd, and was witnessed by 2,000 people. The day was an ideal one for the event; the balloon went up in the view of the people, and the professor was given a good round of applause from the crowd.

MICHAEL POWERS DEAD.

Well Known Man Victim of Appendicitis.

Michael Powers of Bingham died at the Holy Cross hospital yesterday afternoon after a long illness, and was witnessed by 2,000 people. The day was an ideal one for the event; the balloon went up in the view of the people, and the professor was given a good round of applause from the crowd.

He leaves a wife and four children in good circumstances. On Tuesday evening the body will be shipped from here to Cherubusco, N. Y., where it will be buried. The interment will take place, Mrs. Powers and the children will go east and will remain in their former home in Cherubusco.

STATE HUMANE SOCIETY.

Meeting Tonight Promises to be an Interesting One.

The meeting of the Humane society at the office of George Y. Wallace at the telephone building promises to be a lively one because of the important subjects to come up for discussion. Without abating one jot of the energy and perseverance that is being displayed in preventing cruelty to animals, the society will now take up more fully than ever before the subject of cruelty to little children. It has become a habit with the officers of the society that many little children, especially in this city, are suffering from the neglect and heartless cruelty of parents and others whose duty it is to care for them, and a warfare will be waged against these people that promises to stir the community.

The meeting will open tonight at 8 o'clock, and all members of the society and all other interested in the work of preventing cruelty to children and to dumb animals are invited to be present and take part in the discussion. At the close of the business meeting there will be an interesting graphophone concert.

Sugar War Causes Another
Drop in Prices.

There is still another slump in the price of sugar, which will be good news to the Salt Lake housewives. The cut this time is of 60 cents on the sack of 100 pounds. It went into effect at noon Saturday, but as all the jobbing houses in the city close at 12 o'clock and the commission here is not made till this morning, this will make the price of cane sugar on board the cars in San Francisco $4.50, and of beet sugar $4.80. With the 75 cents a hundred freight added, this Blanche Bates Tells of Her Beginning in Salt Lake.

Blanche Bates is back, wearing the same sweet smile, looking the same picture of health and beauty and full of the same inborn art that has charmed her on to victory and made her think much of her friends and proud of the west.

"Do I ever think of those days?" she asked at the suggestion of her acquaintance with Salt Lake. "Well, I should think I do. It was the very first year of my stage career. Who would not bear it in memory? And oh, what an actress was I. Though they were marked with reversals and filled sometimes with bitter disappointments, I meditated on those days always with a tender spot in my heart for Salt Lake. It was here I began. There is but one place I would rather end my career— in my home town, San Francisco."

When Miss Bates arrived yesterday with the "Under Two Flags" company, she and her mother, Mrs. F. M. Bates, were given to the Knutsford, where rooms had been secured for them. Here they found a small coterie of old

SHORT LINE CALLS
OFF ITS LABORERSMany Workers on Grade Are Discharged.

SURVEYS NOT COMPLETE

MAY WAIT FOR CLOSE OF LITIGATION.

With the completion of the Oregon Short Line railroad to Caliente, Nev., the gangs at work on construction have been given their time until the number of workmen left surfacing the new roadbed and grading in Meadow valley wash in a desultory fashion is small in comparison to the size of the forces heretofore employed. Yesterday morning thousands of laborers arrived in this city from the south, having been brought up by the Oregon Short Line train from Caliente. They were told that services would no longer be required.

Not all of the passengers up from south Nevada yesterday were discharged employees of the Oregon Short Line company's construction department. Some of the men who are intensely interested in the kind of work on a railroad to Los Angeles via the short southwest route, for they have mining and other interests along the route which will feel the effects of rail connections with the outside world. The passengers on the train, however, what was to be seen and heard along the newly constructed forty miles and beyond, and while they are disappointed at the apparent chill that has come over the Short Line powers, they are taking consolation in the statement of officials of the company that just as soon as the surveys are completed contracts will be let for a rapid construction of the gap between Caliente and a connection with Los Angeles as was originally intended.

By the curtailing of the working forces of the Short Line there are no more graders employed by this company, it is declared, than are working for the San Pedro company in throwing up a grade beyond Caliente in the wash country. Another mustering out of the men in the construction department of the company, just as soon as the surveys are completed contracts will be let for a rapid construction of the gap between Caliente and a connection with Los Angeles as was originally intended.

There is still a great amount of work to be done in the Short Line's new roadbed from Nevada to Caliente, and it is said the remaining gangs will be kept at this work for a considerable time yet, pending a decision as to future movements in the direction of extending the road further toward the coast.

The roughness of the new roadbed is given as the cause of a handicap jumping the track about fifteen miles this side of Caliente on Saturday and injuring Alex Manios, a young Greek employed on the work. He suffered a fracture of the right leg and is now recovering at St. Mark's hospital.

will make the price of cane sugar in Salt Lake $5.65 a sack, and of beet sugar $6.05, the lowest point reached in years. In discussing the causes for this cut, J. W. Heywood, the local representative of Western Sugar Refining company, stated that the cut was made in New York and must go all the way down the line. He states that the cane crop is in the market, and the beet crop is coming in, and it is simply a fight as to which will have the market. In other words, a "survival of the fittest."

friends awaiting their arrival, and even before removing their hats the cigar of Cigarette chatted cordially with each of them, and told them a few of the things they wanted to know about herself. It was apparent from the very start that Miss Bates is still dispossessed of affection in any and all it degrees.

It was patent, too, that she has not forgotten her birthplace—the west—or any of the whole-soled cordiality belonging distinctly to it. It is only for stage purposes that Miss Bates has learned the value of repose. There is vivacity in her every movement, she laughs a more lively laugh than any body, and her black eyes dance and she smiles continually, probably because she has never tired to do otherwise.

Miss Bates says Cigarette is her favorite role, except it be "Madame Butterfly," in which she "aded more laurels to her crown in New York. Her other big recent successes were "Children of the Ghetto" and "Naughty Anthony."
